The section men—most of them—have gone to work again. In some places they receive $1.25 per day, in others, $1.10. So the company has won out on the strike. There isn't much prosperity in that, is there? $1.10 a day on the section. And the company with more business than it can attend to.

A cashier has not yet been chosen. We understand that Prof. R. E. Wilkinson has an application in for the position. We should like to see him get the place, for we believe he would make a competent and careful cashier.

The deep well on the Asylum grounds was completed last week, and Mr. T. J. Short was chosen the disinterested party to test the water flow. Mr. Short made the test the first of the week. He informs us the water flowed at the rate of 2000 gallons an hour for the full 24 hours of the test, and in his opinion the well will supply twice that amount steadily. The well is 370 feet deep.—St. Francis Herald.

No. 5 ran into the engine of a freight train at Jordan switch about midnight Thursday. The fireman on the passenger train, named Wagner, received injuries from which he died the following day. L. M. Taylor, the engineer had his hands badly lacerated. Dr. Marshall, the local surgeon, was summoned and took the men to the hospital at St. Louis Friday. Wagner was very weak from loss of blood and died the following day. The wreck was occasioned by the passenger running by a flag put out by the freight crew.

A reception given at the residence of B. B. Reagan, Esq., yesterday afternoon, to the members of all the aid societies of the churches of the Valley, was largely attended. Light refreshments, a short musical program, etc., made for the fifty or more present an afternoon of enjoyment, which will not soon be forgotten. It was the right sort of "sociable" and ought not be permitted to be the only one of its kind.

The State Board of Health decided last week that the recent universal spread of small-pox and kindred diseases over the State, has made the appointment of a State pathologist and bacteriologist necessary. Such an official's duty will be to investigate germs and their responsibility for diseases, and to assist the State Board of Health in taking action to prevent the spread of contagion in every form. President McAlester has been instructed to correspond with eminent medical men regarding the securing of a proper official.

The President on last Wednesday nominated E. A. Sample to be postmaster in this city vice R. Albert, whose time expired on January 12. Mr. Albert was a candidate for reappointment, but his pole was not long enough to knock the postmaster, and Sample walked off with Cahoon's post-office. We understand Chas. Pickett will be tendered the position of assistant, but that gentleman says he is not in a position to accept it. The names of Lester Knowles and Bascom Brooks, the present postoffice clerk, are also mentioned.—Fredericktown Democrat-News.

A meeting of the young people of the various churches of the Valley is called to meet in the Methodist church, Ironton, next Saturday afternoon at 8 o'clock, to organize a federation for the purpose of holding regular union meetings for devotional and social purposes. At this meeting officers will be elected, one being chosen from each church, and a committee appointed to arrange programs for the devotional and social meetings. The time of the meetings of the union society will be arranged, if possible, so as not to conflict with any regular meetings in the churches. The place of the meetings will be in the different churches by rotation. There will be no dues or fees levied upon the members of the federation, and there will be no expense except such as may be made by voluntary offerings. All the young people of the community, whether members of church or not, are cordially invited to attend the meeting Saturday afternoon and all subsequent meetings of the federation.

A very serious collision was narrowly averted at Arcadia a few weeks ago. No. 3, the south-bound fast mail, was standing on the main track at the depot with the pusher coupled on ready to go over the hill. They were waiting for the arrival of a north-bound passenger train, that was to take siding at Arcadia. The train came in sight running at full speed and was evidently not going to slow up to take siding. The engineer and fireman on No. 3 thought certain there was going to be a collision and left their engine. Everybody deserted the pusher save the engineer. He reversed and backed No. 3 north to the railroad bridge. The north-bound finally came to a stop and the collision was averted. The engineer claimed that his air would not work and he couldn't sooner stop the train. We think the engineer on the pusher, whose name is Bronnecke, is entitled to a medal. Not many men would have acted with the judgment and courage he did under the circumstances.

In memory of Gladys Claire Billings, who died Jan. 4, 1902.

An angel was sent from Heaven one day, In the form of a little child.

Two hearts rejoiced o'er a daughter's birth, And the face of the whole earth smiled.

Her eyes were a bit of Heaven's own blue, And God's sunlight was in her hair.

Her laughter was like the wild bird's song, And the lily was not more fair.

Everyone loved the winsome maid, Neither sorrow nor care had she.

Of such a one the Lord said, "Suffer them to come unto me."

Though brief the span of her sweet young life, In the fullness of love 'twas given;

Her mission is ended. Her work is done. She has brought you nearer to Heaven.

Be still, sad hearts; your Saviour speaks; Oh, the tenderness of His tone.

"Grieve not, your darling is safe with me, And in Heaven she is still your own."

About six years ago a man by the name of Lowenstein came here to locate a woolen mill. He built the factory now occupied by the screen works. The Register denounced the scheme at the time as a fraud, and so it afterwards proved. The property was sold under execution by the sheriff and bid in by Messrs. Gay and Heywood. When they sold the building moved the screen factory people, they moved the woolen mill machinery to a building on the old Ironton House lot, where it has since remained. One day last week an individual happened in town and bought the machinery. About the time he was getting on the train to leave, someone thought they recognized the stranger the long lost Lowenstein. He indignantly denied the soft impeachment, and said he had never been in the town before. He came back again Tuesday to load the machinery and had it billed to some point in Ohio. No one bothered him, however, although L. had a lot of unsettled debts here, and he was let go on his way unmolested. If the stranger was Lowenstein, he is a sharp one, and it is natural to assume he is on his way to the Buckeye state exclusively in his own interests.

Resolutions.

To the officers and members of St. Paul's Guild:

We, your committee, beg leave to submit the following resolutions of respect to the memory of Mrs. Maria Beard.

WHEREAS, We are again reminded of the uncertainty of life, and made to realize how brittle is the thread that links this life with the life divine.

WHEREAS, Our Heavenly Father in His wisdom, has removed from our midst our beloved friend and neighbor, and our hearts have been made sad, and as she was for many years a faithful member of St. Paul's Church Guild, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Church has lost a faithful, untiring worker, the neighborhood an amiable and christian character, the children a loving mother; and be it further

Resolved, That the officers and members of St. Paul's Guild express their deep sympathy to the children in their hour of sorrow and great loss; and that an expression of our sorrow is due the loved ones left behind, who mourn and cannot be comforted because of their great loss.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, and one sent to each family.

Obituary.

Mrs. Lizzie Henderson died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Lindall, at Sabula, Jan. 5, 1902, aged 36 years, 10 months and 26 days. She was married to Mr. Jim Henderson in 1889. Of this union six children were born, three of whom have preceded her to the other shore. She was a devoted wife, a loving mother and beloved by all who knew her.

She called her children to her bedside and bade them good-bye, and told them to meet her in heaven, and that on the morrow she would be with the loved ones gone before. She leaves a husband, three children and a host of friends and relatives to mourn her loss. She was laid to rest in the Lewis grave yard, where the glorious sun pours down its beaming rays upon her grave.

Call not back the dear departed, Anchored safe where storms are o'er: On the border lands we left her, Soon to meet, to part no more.

Yes, again we hope to meet thee When the day of life is fled, And in heaven with joy to greet thee, Where no farewell tears are shed.

Though she's missed as wife and mother In the place she filled so well, Yet we know that she is happy In the land where angels dwell.

When we see the empty corner, And no one to fill that place, Oh, the time seems long and lonely, And we sigh for her sweet face.

Sadly do we miss her footsteps Tripping lightly over the floor, And her merry, ringing laughter Silent now for evermore.

Though we know the pain and sorrow That she suffered here below, Has all left her, Let her now for evermore.

One by one, as loved ones Came to say a last good-bye, And she told them, smiling gently, That she knew she soon must die.

She was ready, she was willing, When the Saviour bade her come, When he sent a white-robed angel Down to bear her safely home.

With the holy cross clasped tightly In her feeble, trembling hand, Thus her dark eyes closed in slumber, Opening on a brighter land.

Mourn her not, oh, weeping ones, Though you miss her tender love; Think of her a spotless angel, There to welcome you above.

In Memorial.

CALEDONIA, Mo., Jan. 20, 1902.

On Friday evening, Jan. 17th, Mr. Ab. Carr lost, by death, his youngest child, Wm. Lowellyn, aged 6 years and 4 months. We must all sympathize with the grief of the bereaved parents, but I am sure it is well with the child. He lived a little while in a world of which he knew nothing; and is gone to another world in which he has already become wiser than the wisest he has left behind. Sometimes the child is taken when God sees, if it were spared, it would engross too much of the parents' affections, it would be idolized instead of loved—would be in the place of the Saviour and heaven to the parents, and that would not be well, either for them or the child. Sometimes God sees that our affections are becoming too closely entwined around earthly objects, and He takes the child, that those affections may be drawn up to heaven with it; it needs a painful wrench to tear them away, and it is thus He snatches them away from us, to lead us to seek after future and everlasting joys.

And then we know they are not lost—these dear departed children. Do not sorrow without hope, for Jesus is only saying to you in another form what He said to His disciples long ago: "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God." Their death is but their going to Him.

A path that must be trod, If man would ever pass to God."

Mr. Carr wishes to express his thanks to friends for their untiring and self-sacrificing interest during the illness of his child, and hopes such a bereavement may be far from any other home.

PASTOR.

A Prominent Chicago Woman Speaks.

Prof. Roxa Tyler, of Chicago, Vice-President Illinois Woman's Alliance, in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, says: "I suffered with a severe cold this winter which threatened to run into pneumonia. I tried different remedies but I seemed to grow worse and the medicine upset my stomach. A friend advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and I found it was pleasant to take and it relieved me at once. I am now entirely recovered, saved a doctor's bill, time and suffering, and I will never be without this splendid medicine again." For sale by all druggists.

Des Arc Items.

This is the first drought I ever saw in January. Wells are drying up and water for stock is scarce.

Hub timber is moving in fast; forty-one teams came into Des Arc Saturday.

Jade Melton, a saw-mill man, let his hand get on the circular saw last week and had a thumb and two fingers cut off. It seems to be the fashion here lately to cut off fingers. It reminds me of the fox who went out to kill chickens and got caught in a steel trap, which cut his tail off. He went back to the other foxes and told them it was the fashion, and that they should have their tails cut off too. So Bud Midoff seems to be following the style.

Mrs. Will Simmonds nee Jordan, died last Thursday of pneumonia. She had been sick only a few days, and her death came as a great shock, not only to her relatives, but to her many friends. She leaves a husband and two children, father and mother and many friends to mourn her loss. The bereaved family shares our heartfelt sympathy in their dark hour of sorrow.
